RICHMOND, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, JULY 31, 1914

NO. 31

R. J. LATIMER Candidate for Superior Judge

Judge R. H. Latimer is the present incumbent, and is a candidate to succeed himself, and there isn't any doubt about his re-election. Judge Latimer has lived in Contra Costa county thirty years, and his splendid record as a fair and impartial jurist has won for him commendation on every hand. Judge Latimer stands on the selection of jurists by the people. There are to be two judges elected. That Judge R. H. Latimer will be re-elected to the office he has so ably filled for the past six years, there is not the least doubt. There are five other candidates in the field for the judgeship of the second department, which was created by the last legislature, but they are not after Judge Latimer's position. In fact, they are supporters of the Judge, as there is no separation of the two judgeships. The two positions on the bench are to all intents and purposes the one office, and the present incumbent must be voted for in connection with only one other candidate. At the primaries the first four candidates who receive the highest number of votes for superior judge will be voted for November 3. At this election the two receiving the highest number of votes will receive the certificate of office. Vote for two candidates, and vote for Judge Latimer. He is a good man, and has been tried out and found to be a fair and impartial jurist.

HON. JAMES D. PHELAN SPEAKS AT 10TH SCHOOL

The many friends of James D. Phelan attended the political gathering Wednesday night to hear him speak on some of the important questions of the present political campaign. A. C. Lang preceded the speaker of the evening in a short speech, after which Chairman Pettillon introduced Mr. Phelan, who made quite a favorable impression upon his audience, especially on the canal tolls question, endorsing President Wilson's policy and enlightening his hearers on many points in connection with the great waterway.

YOSEMITE BLUE LAWS DO NOT MATERIALIZE

Dr. Blake has returned from the Yosemite and says the stories of "blue laws" enforced in the national park are on paper, also in the noddle of the yellow newspaper man. He says that the courtesies extended by government officials, the perfect system of handling machines in the park and the precautions against accident reflect great credit and forethought upon Uncle Sam.

Teheran (Persia).—Sultan Ahmed Mirza, the 16-year-old Shah of Persia, on attaining his official majority, took the constitutional oath of office in the palace of the National Council.

RICHMOND'S PIONEER, AT 92, PASSES AWAY

John Nicholl, pioneer and founder of Richmond, died from a stroke of apoplexy at his Oakland home at 9 o'clock Tuesday night. Mr. Nicholl was 91 years of age, and his death was almost simultaneous with that of F. L. Turpin of San Francisco, who was a close personal friend of Nicholl's and who also played a prominent part in the early history and growth of Richmond.

Nicholl was born in Ireland in 1822. He came to New York in 1849, and in 1853 arrived in San Francisco. He built the first house in Oakland at the corner of Washington and Ninth streets. He was president of the John Nicholl Co., and leaves a large estate.

Nicholl is survived by eight children—three boys and five girls. John Nicholl, Jr., is the president of the company with headquarters in this city.

CITY BRIEFS

John Word was granted an extension of 30 days in the Ashland avenue paving contract.

The city council were given a venison feed Wednesday night by Judge Lindsey, who killed a fine buck while on his vacation.

Special Policeman M. R. Sprague was named by the city council to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Joseph Munday.

The measles scare in Richmond was not looked upon as serious by many of the residents. However, Dr. Blake, the watchful health commissioner, believes in being on the safe side.

There was something doing at Lafayette Corners, Stege, last Saturday night. There were speeches and candidates, and a feed fit for kings.

Rev. Father George Quinn of St. Patrick's parish, San Francisco, has been assigned to the position of assistant rector of St. Mark's Catholic Church in this city to succeed Rev. Father Martin O'Connell, who goes to St. Patrick's parish.

LATE "NEWS TERMINALS"

Registration figures at County Clerk Wells' office show a gain of over 2000 for the past year. Registration clerks give the figures at 15,426, while the total for 1912 was 11,980.

The funeral of Pioneer John Nicholl was held from the family residence in Oakland today.

E. M. Blake, the young bartender who shot and killed H. M. Bridges in the Six Bells saloon in Rust, was exonerated by the coroner's jury. Henry Clawson, the other member of the party who was shot in the abdomen by Blake, testified that Blake was not to blame; that all had imbibed too freely of liquor.

Frank Gardner, the realty dealer and Judge Opsahl have a combination law and real estate office near Fifteenth and Macdonald that can't be beat.

KEYSTONE ADDITION CHOICEST PROPERTY

Keystone addition contains the choicest business blocks in Richmond and is the cream of water front property. The S. P. depot at Stege is located on the northern boundary, and the property will have all the advantages of modern transportation lines both by rail and water. Situated on the inner harbor in the traffic center, the possibilities of development of this property cannot be estimated. Chandler, Bourn & Miller have made little "noise" in selling this fine tract of 1500 lots. It sold without talking. The buyers of these lots are good forecasters. In a few years their value cannot be estimated.

POLITICAL NOTES

Dr. C. Homer Woodruff is the republican candidate for assemblyman. Dr. Woodruff is a republican, as his card indicates, for he has "republican" printed all over it. Doc was raised on a farm in Iowa, therefore we must favor him, for Iowa is a great state, many of us having been raised there and know what it's like. But Dr. Woodruff is especially qualified to serve the people of this county as assemblyman. He is a polished student, a man of broad ideas, and has world-wide experience. He is well acquainted with the needs of the people, and knows how to get action. He is honest and efficient, and his election would be a "good feather" for Contra Costa county. We need just such men as Dr. Woodruff to represent us in the legislative halls of the state at this time.

Among the numerous candidates do not forget that Joe Munday is out for constable. Joe is an old timer in these parts, and has worlds of friends, especially in the county line district. Joe has served on the Richmond police force, and has a good record. He is not afraid, and will take a chance with any of the nifty fellows who claim to be "bad men." Joe has had two or three hair breadths, one in the lumber yard not long ago, when his life depended upon the quick action of a quarter of a second. If elected to the office of constable for the Richmond district, Joe will fill the place with credit.

Editor W. R. Sharkey of the Martinez Standard announces his candidacy for the assembly. Mr. Sharkey is a cracker-jack newspaper man, and there is no reason why he should not make a good statesman, and do some good work at Sacramento in the way of making a little "phat" for the printer, who has pretty slim picking under the "new order of things." Chas. A. Stephens was in Richmond Saturday in the interest of the candidacy of Frederick S. Stratton, who will undoubtedly be the next justice of the First District Court of Appeals, short term.

City Attorney D. J. Hall's announcement for Judge of the Superior Court appears in another column. Mr. Hall has made many friends in Richmond and has served the city as attorney with satisfaction to all. He is a man of pleasing personality, a good citizen and an attorney of unquestionable qualifications. He will be in the running in the field of candidates for the two department judges to be elected in the coming election.

J. H. Gregory, the old timer and candidate for constable, is out campaigning and doing good work. He has entirely recovered from his long illness.

Attorney Clare Homer, democratic candidate for the assembly, is making new acquaintances and friends in the up-county district. Clare is also a Hawkeye state boy, and should make a good run.

Leo F. Tormey is a candidate for Superior Judge, and a number of wise ones have named him as a winner. He looks good.

Blanche Morse, as candidate for county superintendent of schools for Alameda county, will have a walk-over, as the mother voters will give her a solid vote.

There are only five democratic candidates for governor in the field.

IMPRISONMENT FOR NAVAL DESSERTERS IS ABOLISHED

Washington.—Abolition of imprisonment for desertion from the Navy in times of peace was ordered by Secretary Daniels. Under the new regulations bluejackets who overstay their leaves or commit similar breaches of discipline will be summarily dismissed instead of being sent to prison, while men who become dissatisfied with the service and want to quit may have an honorable discharge by merely refunding certain enlistment allowances.

TRANSATLANTIC FLIGHT IS POSTPONED TWO MONTHS

Hammondsport (N. Y.).—Lieutenant John C. Porte will not attempt to fly across the Atlantic until October 1st. This decision was reached as a result of a conference between Glenn H. Curtiss, Lieutenant Porte and Will Gash, the personal representative of Rodman Wanamaker. Curtiss said that while it was possible to reassemble the machine and rush it to New York in time for the steamer sailing for Newfoundland on August 1st, it was advisable to take time to rebuild the machine properly and to make changes suggested by the experiments of the past month.

Miners May Consolidate Unions
Denver (Col.).—The consolidation of the United Mine Workers of America and the Western Federation of Miners in a "one-miners' organization" is recommended in the report of President Charles H. Moyer, presented at the biennial convention of the latter organization here.

J. RIO BAKER OF ANTIOCH Has no opponent for office

Present county treasurer gives best of satisfaction and is a man especially fitted for the position

County Treasurer J. Rio Baker has no opponent for the office of county treasurer of Contra Costa, which is evidence sufficient that he fills the position with entire satisfaction to the people. The funds of the county could not be entrusted in better hands, for Mr. Baker is one of the pioneers of the county, and was postmaster at Antioch for more than a quarter of a century. Uncle Sam employs only the best, and integrity is the required qualification, the essential one, and Mr. Baker's record for efficiency and honesty has never been questioned. He is of that good old reliable stock, and the people want him to handle the county's funds, and intend to keep him in the office of county treasurer as long as he desires to serve.

CLUBHOUSE DESIGNED BY ARCHITECT OGBORN

Contractor Charles Johnson has a large staff of workmen erecting the handsome new home of the Richmond Club, in Nevins avenue between Eleventh and Twelfth streets. The rear part of the structure is completed, and the structure stands ready for the shinglers and plasterers. The building, designed by J. B. Ogborn, will cost about $6000. Plans are being made for a two-day fair for October 8 and 9, for the opening of the new home.

SPRING VALLEY ACCEPTS OFFER FOR PROPERTY

It was given out by officials of Spring Valley Water Company that the latter's property had been sold to the city of San Francisco for $34,500,000. The attorneys have practically agreed upon all terms, and it is said formal acceptance will be made today or tomorrow. The purchase price includes all the properties of the company with the exception of 5000 acres of land at Pleasanton.

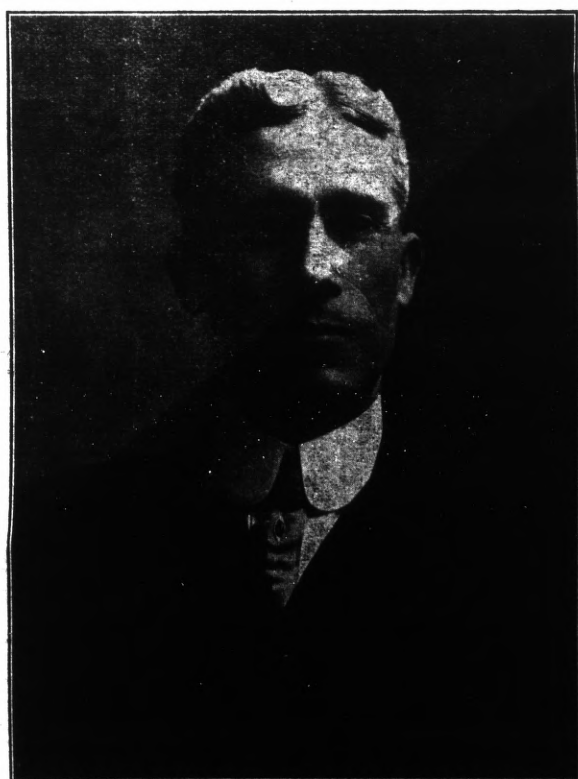

Standard Oil Violates Law

New York.—For alleged violation of one of the "seven sister" acts of New Jersey, enacted during Woodrow Wilson's governorship, Judge Tennant issued a criminal warrant against the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, on application of the Crew Levick Oil Company. The charge made is underselling the cost price of gasoline to crush competition. All the directors of the defendant company are liable to a three-year sentence in case of conviction.

A. J. SOTO OF MARTINEZ Candidate for District Attorney

Mr. Soto has served the county in an official capacity before, and made good. He was raised in Contra Costa county, as were his ancestors, and has a record for filling the requirements exacted by the public with credit to himself and the county he represents.

Meals on Time

A good oil stove gives full heat just as soon as it's lighted. There's no waiting for the fire to catch up or the oven to heat. Meals can be started later and still be served right on time. That means less work and less time in the kitchen.

New Perfection OIL COOK STOVE

burns kerosene, the clean, cheap fuel and gives an intense heat that can be regulated just as you want it. It does all sorts of cooking and baking just as well as a wood or coal stove—and without tainting the food. Don't cook in a hot kitchen this summer. Don't lug coal and wood and ashes. Get a New Perfection. It saves all this trouble and it's economical, too. Ask your dealer for the New Perfection.

MEXICAN GENERALS ARE NOW FRIENDLY

Hold the Good of Their Country
and Petty Jealousy

Washington.—Not only Government officials, but representatives here of all Mexican factions, expressed more confidence than ever before that peace at last was in sight in Mexico. Relations between Generals Carranza and Villa were pronounced as friendly by Felicitos Villareal, sub-secretary of the treasury in the Constitutional Government. He declared General Carranza was paying the wages of Villa's men and supplying him with ammunition.

"Within the past fortnight," said Villareal, "General Carranza sent two million pesos to General Villa," and delivered to his representatives at Tampico 2,000,000 rounds of ammunition. Some doubt has been expressed by border representatives over the fact that agents of Villa were purchasing ammunition for him. Local Constitutionalists said Villa's representatives, as well as agents of other division commanders, shipped arms directly to the various forces, but that general authority and sanction for the purchases came from General Carranza.

Vera Cruz.—Alfredo Breceda, representative of General Carranza, arrived here from Havana, accompanied by F. R. Villavicencio, who has been secretary of Rafael Zubaran. Both denied General Carranza intends coming to Vera Cruz, and said it is improbable he will go to the capital for at least two months.

It is Carranza's plan, they declared, somewhat after the manner of Madero at the close of his successful revolution and upon the assumption of the provisional Presidency by Francisco de la Barra, to visit town after town in Mexico personally to reassure the inhabitants and also to impress on them the fact that the Constitutionalists have been victorious.

Carbalja, through the Brazilian minister in Mexico City, officially declared he was willing to transfer the executive power to Carranza and had sent a delegate, Reginaldo Cepedato, to arrange with the Constitutional chief.

Carbalja reiterated he merely wanted an amnesty for political offenders and guarantees for the safety of the property of the people who had supported Huerta.

Carranza, through the American consul accompanying him, manifested his readiness to be lenient with the foes of the Constitutionalists and give the desired guarantees.

Villa, in a message phrased in most courteous terms, spoke of his desire to see peace established on a basis of justice and liberty, and gave assurances that he would do his utmost to restore normal conditions.

"Communication with Zapata has been difficult, but official word has been obtained from him in which he manifests a desire to join with the Constitutional chief in rehabilitating the governmental machinery throughout Mexico.

WILL TEACH CITIZENS HOW TO LIVE RIGHT

New York City Has Director for Public Health Education

New York.—New York City, through examination by the Civil Service Commission, is about to select a director for the newly-created bureau of public health education. It is said New York will be the first municipality to employ a health educator whose duty it will be to teach citizens how to live right.

The duties of the director will be to organize and administer the new bureau and to prepare and edit popular bulletins dealing with public health, besides being editor-in-chief of all the publications regularly issued by the Health Department.

The salary of the health educator will be $5000 a year, one of the highest in the competitive class.

GAME COCK PUTS UP FIGHT WITH A BIG RATTLESNAKE

San Mateo.—A fighting cock belonging to Chris Stader, president of the San Mateo Poultry Association, engaged in a battle royal with a rattlesnake of much size and belligerency—and the snake, said to be eleven years old, lost its life.

The fighting cock didn't kill the snake, however, although Stader says that at the speed it was going it might have done so. Stader heard the sounds of battle, rushed out of his house and slaughtered the rattler with a club.

The fighting cock was uninjured and was still looking for trouble when the snake was breathing its last.

Oakland.—The heroism of Allan Hudson, 16 years of age, was unavailing when he swam to the rescue of his imperiled brother James, after the latter had been seized with cramps while swimming in the estuary off Kirkham street, Oakland. Both were drowned, locked in each other's arms.

CLEANING BLOCK IS USEFUL

A Handle About Twenty Inches Long Affords Chance to Apply the Necessary Pressure.

A simple and very useful commutator cleaning block may be made of three pieces of wood, two bolts and a piece of a broom handle. The broom handle is fitted into the block and the block drilled for two holes, as shown, taking one-quarter-inch bolts five inches long. The slotted heads may be countersunk in one of the strips of wood and thumb nuts are used at the threaded end of the bolts. The block may be hollowed out to conform to the arc of the commutator, but if the block is not made too wide, that is not necessary.

The handle being about twenty-two inches long gives a chance to apply necessary pressure to handle the block and move it across the surface, says Popular Electricity. It is a much better method than holding the sandpaper under the fingers or holding it to a block held in the hand.

IN SUCH PAIN WOMAN CRIED

Suffered Everything Until Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Florence, So. Dakota.—"I used to be very sick every month with bearing down pains and backache, and had a headache a good deal of the time and very little appetite. The pains were so bad that I used to sit right down on the floor and cry, because it hurt me so and I could not do any work at those times. An old woman advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I got a bottle. I felt better the next month so I took three more bottles of it and got well so I could work all the time. I hope every woman who suffers like I did will try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. P. W. LANSING, Route No. 1, Florence, South Dakota.

Why will women continue to suffer day in and day out or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

O'REILLY ON STAGE

Recounting Several Improvements on Shakespeare and the Famous Roman Statesman.

By JOHN BARTON OXFORD.

He sat on the end of the pier, dangling his long legs above the water while he watched the afternoon shadows play hide-and-seek among the spars of the fishing fleet at the next wharf.

His bullet-shaped head was crowned with an aureole of fiery red hair; his protruding jaw gave the impression of dogged determination; but, to offset this, his watery blue eyes, one of which had a decided cast, roved restlessly here and there with an air of melancholy indecision. His name began valiantly with Daniel Webster, and ended with something of a shock to the senses—in O'Reilly.

Beside him on the pier stinger lounged a smaller and meeker man—a satellite, evidently, if one were to judge him by the manner in which his eyes sought almost reverently O'Reilly's ugly features and the way he hung attentively on O'Reilly's every word.

"This bein' too intellectual that bein' it," quoth O'Reilly, borrowing the satellite's newly-lighted pipe and puffing away with contented inhalations.

"If I hadn't been thinkin' too much of my intellect I wouldn't have been pursuin' borrowed literature before me," murmured the satellite, as if he hadn't been persuin' the literature, the head shipper wouldn't 'a' found me there an' fired me incontinent for doin' the same. As it was, I stuffed the literature into my pocket, said good day to the shipper an' wished him luck, sarcastic, an' I drew the pay that was due me, departed into outer darkness.

"Three weeks I was jobless, an' at the end of that time, with tollin' not nor spinnin', I found myself facin' the terrible possibility of a personal famine in the midst of plenty.

"'Twas at that stage of the proceedin' that I run across Andy McConcey—success to the white soul of him! He took me down the street to a place an' listened to my troubles most sympathetic.

"I happen to know," says he, when I had finished, 'where you can land a job most suitable to your peculiar talents. This fellow, Hagan, who is playin' 'Julius Caesar' at the Grand Opera house, is shy a couple of centurions.

"Nature has cast you in the mold of a centurion," he goes on, runnin' a critical eye over my contour. 'You've the build an' the air of one. Why don't you go up an' make a try for it?'

"Who do I want to see up there?" says I, brightenin' up with hope.

"The stage doorkeeper is a good friend of mine," says Andy. 'I'll give you a note to him. Go up an' see him an' he'll put you wise.'

"An' that is how it came about that on the same evenin' I trod the boards in 'Julius Caesar' with an adolescent pair of 'Julius Caesar's' legs, a dinky little skirt dangle from my waist, a bit of tin armor on my chest, an' a brass helmet which sported a plume of rooster feathers for a lid.

"For two weeks I led a care-free life, disportin' my immodest thighs every night, doin' my groans an' my belters an' drawin' my pay regular every Monday. I might have been doin' the same yet if my heart hadn't got away with my sense an' I hadn't give 'Julius Caesar' a much-needed chastisement one night when the house was packed.

"This fellow, Hagan, who was doin' the title role of the show, was a pompous, crabbed sort of a chap. He was always orderin' every one about an' makin' a most amazing fuss if everything didn't go just as he wanted it to. He had a wife—nice little clingin' sort of a creature that thought the sun rose an' set by him. He was forever findin' fault with her an' abusin' her something fierce, but she used to stand for it all with never a murmur. She'd pass it off by sayin' he had the artistic temperament, which I took to be something that relieved him of all responsibility of actin' like a civilized man.

There was a good deal of talk about the way he treated her, even among the super, for she was one of the kind of women that was always doin' some one a good turn.

"She was cast for a small part, an' if she didn't do it just to suit his lordship's taste—which was frequent—the way he'd run on an' the names he'd call her was enough to make her blood run cold. But I never saw him abuse her except with his tongue, till this night I'm tellin' you about, when I resigned from the company sooner than I should.

"Hagan must 'a' been drinkin' pretty hard, an' when it came time for the evenin' performance he was in his cranksiest frame of mind. He cussed everybody an' everything, free an' impartial. We all noticed, too, that when he got his first cue his legs were wobbly, a good deal as he stumbled through the wings.

"Mrs. Hagan was watchin' him anxiously, but, once he got goin' he seemed to sober up all right, an' the show run on smooth as clockwork, with 'Julius Caesar' gettin' the glad hand every time he stuck his nose out of the wings, for, somehow, he was outdoin' himself.

"After this first scene of his he come marchin' off the stage most majestic, but the minute he hit the wings he seemed to lose his grip on himself an' to go all to pieces. He stood there for a minute, shakin' an' sort of confused like; then he went staggerin' toward his dressing room, with his wife, white an' anxious, trailin' after.

"A minute later a door banged viciously, an' even in the wings we could hear Hagan's voice howlin' an' cussin'.

"'Twas shortly after that that I caught my rights on a nail in a place of scenery an' tore 'em somethin' scandalous. It bein' almost time for the centurion to show up again, I rushed down the passageway between the dressing rooms to the property room, meanin' either to get the tear sewed up or to get a fresh pair of tights.

"When I come back the door of Hagan's dressing room was wide open an' I could hear two voices—his wife's, sort of low an' pleadin', and Hagan's roarin' back at her as if she was the inmate of a deaf asylum. I come along more cautious till I got to where I could see through the open doorway.

"Hagan was standin' back to me. In one hand he held a bottle an' in the other a glass. 'Twas plain as the nose on your face that 'Julius Caesar' intended to take a little refreshment. His wife had hold with both hands of the arm that held the bottle. Her eyes were big an' frightened an' she was talkin' fast in a low, scared voice.

"You shan't, she was sayin', 'you shan't!'

"An' then Hagan wrenched himself free. He put the bottle on a chair an', turnin' round, struck her with his fist. 'Something seemed to give way inside of me. For a minute I couldn't seem to move, an' I guess it was lucky I couldn't, for there was murder in my soul, an' I guess I'd got hold of Hagan, then I'd have wrung the neck of him.

"But before I could get my wits back sufficient there was a fortunate interruption in the shape of 'Brutus,' who come hurrin' down the passageway to the dressing room an' pulled Hagan through the door.

"Come, come, Hagan! Where the devil are you? says he, apparently not noticin' the huddled heap on the trunk. 'Do you want to queer the scene? Come on, now, an' get a grip on yourself.'

"An' off he goes, pushin' Hagan on in front of him.

"I went down the passageway an' got some water in a dipper; then I come back to the dressing room, an' I lifted up the woman on the trunk, I bathed her temples till she opened her eyes an' said 'Thank you,' very weak.

"Then I propped her up comfortable with some costumes an' went out to the wings.

"My head was swimmin' an' red sparks was floatin' in front of my eyes, but I walked into the wings very steady an' stopped there for a minute to listen. 'Julius Caesar' stood alone near the footlights, swayin' uncertainly while he delivered a soliloquy.

"Only a moment I waited there before I stalked out on the stage, my tin breastplate clankin', an' the rooster streamer in the plume of my helmet round. When his eyes lit on me he fair turned yellow with anger.

"Get out of here! says he under his breath. 'What do you mean, you crazy fool! Get out of here!'

"An' with that he swings round an' goes on with his soliloquy, thinkin', of course, that I'd dive crestfallen into the wings; but he was takin' a chance on uncertainties, for on I stalked an' caught him by the back of the neck with my right hand. The soliloquy stopped sudden; he let out a yell an' begun to cuss so violent that I had to hug him up to me an' clap my other hand over his mouth to choke him off.

"Then I turned to the audience, which was starin' in open-mouthed wonder, with an adolescent pair of 'Julius Caesar's' legs, a dinky little skirt dangle from my waist, a bit of tin armor on my chest, an' a brass helmet which sported a plume of rooster feathers for a lid.

"Ladies an' gentlemen," says I, bowin' my lowest an' smilin' my sweetest. 'I'm sorry to interrupt 'Julius Caesar's' soliloquy, but there's a few things that ought to be said, out of fairness to you, before he goes any farther.

"Julius," here, ain't just what he seems to be. He's been deceivin' you 'til 'til 'til now my intention to show him up for what he is. When he struts these boards every night an' gets the glad hand from you all good but misguided folks think of him as an upright an' honorable man, which he ain't by no means. He's a low-down, underhanded scoundrel.

"But, like a good many people of his kind, he's got as good a wife as the Lord ever made. 'Julius' ain't appreciative of this fact. He seems to think she's only something to cuss at an' wipe his feet on. This is his usual course with her, but tonight he went a step farther. He's been abusin' her cowardly blow in the mouth. All of which makes me think that our friend, 'Julius,' here, is badly in need of chastisin' in public. An' this, if you will kindly give me your undivided attention for a minute, I will proceed to do.

"At this time Hagan had been buttin' his head into my ribs an' kickin' me in the shins somethin' cruel, but by dint of exertin' all of my strength I'd managed to hold on to him an' keep him quiet.

"At the left of the scene was a flight of steps, an' when I dragged him thither, down these I sat, an' after considerable of a struggle I managed to get him across my knees. Then I laid on him good, honest wallops with my bare hands, while he howled an' kicked an' bit most vicious.

"I'd only got in a half dozen or so when a bell tinkled an' the curtain come down with a rush. People came swarin' from every direction. I let go Hagan, gave him a push an' a kick, an' jumped up to defend myself. I was makin' a pretty creditable job of it when 'Brutus' got a strange hold around my neck an' 'Cassius' tripped me up, an' then 'Mark Antony' gave me a jolt in the short ribs that took the wind clean out of me an' put me down an' out.

"When I come to I was layin' in the alley that runs back of the stage entrance, still toggled out in my centurion rig, but with my civilized clothes piled up beside me.

"Say, I'm out of a job, all right, an' I'm on my uppers for fair, but it's worth it.

"I hear Hagan is treatin' her better now."

Destroying Equilibrium.

"That former enemy of yours is payin' you a great many compliments."

"Yes," replied Senator Borghum; "and I wish he'd quit it. One of the easiest ways to throw a man down is to swell his head until he gets too heavy."

"Fluences."

"That man has a fluent style of oratory."

"Yes," replied the experienced condescender, "but what our campaign is looking for is somebody with an as-fluent style of contribution."

"I don't approve of a man who sits around in carpet slippers," exclaimed the energetic citizen.

"Nobody does," replied Miss Cayenne. "All the men have to wear slippers."

ON THE FUNNY SIDE

EFFECTIVE FORCE AT WORK

They Bit of Humanity Graphically Describes to Bullying Attorney How He Captured Burglar.

Little Smithson was a meek, nervous-looking five feet of humanity. His manner suggested the probability of his heart breaking were he at any time compelled to kill a fly, even though it were in self-defense.

When, therefore, a burglar paid him a visit one night, he was a bit scared. The nocturnal visitor having been captured, Smithson had to give evidence at the trial.

The prisoner's counsel, a big bullying man, evidently thought he had got an easy job on which little Smithson entered the witness box.

Having described the events prior to the burglar's capture, Smithson said: "Of course, I got him all right, but I had to use considerable force before he gave in."

"Oh, indeed?" replied the lawyer, with a skeptical smile, as he looked the little man up and down. "And what force was it you used?"

"Oh," replied Smithson, with a bland smile, "it was the police force."

Conquered.

Wife (with rolling pin)—Guess this will teach you not to say "my furniture" and "my house." I had the money when you married me, and you must say "our house," "our furniture."

Husband (next morning from under the bed, where he had spent the night)—My dear, can I put on our trousers?

Durn Shame!

Twenty-four Hour Man (with the circus passes)—Where are the bills you should have in your windows? Hickville Storekeeper (irritably)—Aw, why in tarnation didn't yer other advance agent leave manerger pictures instead of lady trapene artists? The Purity League made me take 'em all down!—Puck.

Improvement.

"Don't you think you could do something with that orchestra to improve my song?" asked the lady soloist at the theater.

"What's the matter with it?" asked the orchestra leader.

"Why, they could hardly hear my song for that drum."

"Well, we can put in a couple more drums!"

Wanted Definite Information.

"Here's some information, Willie. This paper states that potatoes in Greenland do not grow larger than an ordinary marble," said his father.

"I don't call that information, papa," replied the boy; "what size marble does it mean—a clay 'mug' or a china alley?"

A SAFEGUARD.

She—Why is it, Mr. Gotrox, that you have always remained a bachelor? He—I always go into retirement every leap year.

The Sweet Thing!

Mollie—I see new goggles for motorists are fitted at the sides with mirrors so a wearer can see what is approaching from the rear without turning his head.

Chollie—But, dear, they would never prevent my "head being turned" if you were beside me.

Absent-Minded.

Miss Elder—Poor Mr. Dobb is so absent-minded. He bought me a box of candy on his way up to call last evening, and he—

Her Friend—He left it in the street, I suppose.

Miss Elder—No; he ate it.

Confident Pride.

"Any real information on the perplexing problems of the day?" asked the man in the spring wagon.

"Not yet," replied Farmer Cornsoul; "but my boy Josh is at work on a commencement oration that'll tell 'em a few things."

Footgear.

"I don't approve of a man who sits around in carpet slippers," exclaimed the energetic citizen.

"Nobody does," replied Miss Cayenne. "All the men have to wear slippers."

FRENCH TAKE THINGS EASY

While Chastising Love for Academy They Never Miss Chance to Make It Object of Wit.

The French are not inclined to take things too seriously. Thus, while they love and respect the venerable French academy, they never refrain from making it the subject of a little good-natured wit. Even the members themselves, as this entry in Victor Hugo's notebook will show, indulge in occasional sallies against the famous institution.

On December 17th, 1846, Victor Hugo, himself one of the forty "immortal" members of the academy, wrote in his notebook:

"Today, Thursday, in the academy, I spoke there with Dupin the elder about Balzac and of his chances of election to the academy."

"Thunder!" Dupin interrupted me. So you really believe that, without any more to do, Balzac will be chosen the first time he comes up for election! You quote examples where that has occurred, but these prove nothing. Think of it! Balzac, at the first presentation of his name! You have thought the matter over carefully? Have you? You have forgotten one reason why it is quite impossible that Balzac should be elected to the academy—he deserves it!"

AT THE LAWN PARTY DANCE.

Evelyn—Gracious, you have elephant's feet!

George—Well, that's better than having crowfeet.

No Wonder.

"Was Jobson in today when you called to collect the bill?" asked the head of the subscription department.

"Yes, he was, and he paid me a very pretty compliment," said the lady collector.

"How about the money?"

"Oh, I forgot all about that!"

Making the Bed Go Round.

Yeast—I see a hotel designed for one of the wisest cities of southern California will have pipes conveying a cooling liquid in every room, even the bed frames being made of them. Crismonbeak—That's going some—having the drinks follow a man to bed!

Getting Him Located.

"Did you ever play poker in Crimston Gulch before?" asked Three Finger Sam.

"Only once," replied the stranger, "and then I played only for fun."

"I recollect you. You're one of those fellows who can't have any fun unless they win everything in sight."

Wavering.

"So you don't think that women ought to vote?"

"I have my doubts on the subject," replied young Mrs. Torkins. "You see, Charley will insist on betting on all the elections, and they're hard enough to guess as they are."

She Was On.

He had left her between the acts, saying he had to "see a man."

"Well, how is John?" she asked when he returned.

"John Barleycorn, of course," she replied.—Boston Evening Transcript.

Accounting for the Hair.

Bill—I see horsehair is said to make a substitute for rubber in the manufacture of automobile tires.

Bill—Perhaps that gave the landlady the idea that if she put some in the butter it would make the butter go around farther.

Any Time.

Nell—Elliza went to an astrologer to find out when was the best time to get married.

Stell—What did he tell her?

Nell—He took one look at her and told her to grab her first chance.—Judge.

Social Simile.

"Bliggins is always talking about his family tree."

"Yes," replied Miss Cayenne. "A family tree is like the ordinary tree. The twig that is farthest from the main root does the most fluttering."

Athletic Vocalization.

"Is a ventriloquist a person who throws his voice?" asked Mr. Lobrow.

"Go to speak."

"Well, we've got one next door. She hasn't thrown it yet, but she is giving it a terrible struggle."

Floaters.

Church—I see that Philadelphia's harbor policemen all weigh 300 pounds or more, and none of them can swim.

Gotham—Oh, well, if they weigh that much they ought to be able to float, all right.

Depraved Taste.

Young Lady—That man at the agricultural fair certainly did loop the loop gracefully.

Grandma—Lally, how can you see anything graceful in a lynching? I think it is disgraceful.

Practical Appreciation.

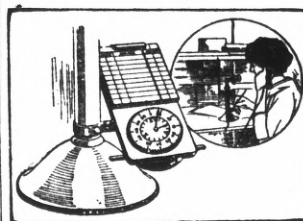

"People are not as appreciative of art in America as in Europe."

"Nonsense!" replied Mr. Cumroo. "I can outbid all the collectors in Europe for any picture on the map."

TIME OF TELEPHONE TALKS

RESINOL CURED AWFUL ITCHING IN ONE NIGHT

New York, April 26.—"The skin on my hand got red and rough. It itched and I began to scratch it. It itched so that sometimes I could not sleep all night. I was suffering very much. I used ————, but they did not seem to help me. This went on for six or seven months. Then I tried Resinol ointment and Resinol soap. I used them one night. In the morning, to my surprise, my hand was all well and the trouble has never returned. This is the absolute truth."

(Signed) Miss Celia Kleinman, 61 Columbia St.

Nothing we can say of Resinol equals what others, such as Miss Kleinman, say of it. It does its work quickly, easily and at little cost. Resinol ointment and Resinol soap are sold by all druggists.—Adv.

Oil and Gas From Bricks.

Recent experimenting in the Peterborough (England) brickworks by a patented process for extracting oil, ammonia, and gas from burning bricks is likely to have an important commercial significance. All bricks made from the Oxford clay in the neighborhood of Peterborough burn of themselves in the kiln, because of the bituminous matter they contain, and that bituminous matter yields oil, gas, and ammonia on heating in a retort out of contact with the air.

Patents have been granted to an ex-scholar from the Cathedral grammar school, Mr. G. P. Crowden, who has invented an apparatus to modify the present brick-kilns, so that the waste heat from the burning bricks may be used for heating the retorts, and further, that the green bricks themselves may be retorted, and the oil, gas, and ammonia recovered from them. The results are said to be most astonishing.

Famous American Roads.

Something over 200 years ago there was built the first great American highway, "the old York road," between New York and Philadelphia.

The construction of this famous road in 1711 was an example that led the colonists at other points along the Atlantic seaboard to make similar roads where there were no water routes.

For the most part these roads were built by chartered companies, and were called turnpikes or toll roads. Pennsylvania, Connecticut and New Jersey had many roads of this kind.

The first macadamized road in this country was constructed in 1792 between Philadelphia and Lancaster. In 1811 there were said to be 4,500 miles of chartered turnpikes

EFFECTIVE POLITICAL ADVERTISING

One candidate, with a good eye for publicity, has ordered several hundred copies of the Richmond Terminal newspaper for distribution in the county, where the publicity setting forth his reasons for being a candidate to serve the public weal will do the most good. The Terminal as the oldest newspaper in Richmond, where the balance of voting power lies, has a following that no other newspaper can claim. The confidence of the people in the Terminal's opinion and policy was fully demonstrated in the recent water election. The Terminal being the only newspaper in Richmond that stood for the people and prevented the putting over of a political job that would have retarded the growth and put Richmond back among the slow-going suburban towns of the bay cities. The Terminal is clean in policy, as well as typographically, and is not boasting when it says that it receives many compliments from the foremost men of affairs, as well as the humble workingman, to whom the Terminal always concedes the "long end" in the tug for existence under the present "high tension."

In giving publicity to your claims for political preference to the public, the Terminal can serve you to better advantage than the "dead-wall," the personal card or other time-worn methods. The Terminal newspaper is not used as a memorandum like the election card, but is passed around and read. It is on file in the libraries and chamber of commerce, hotels, etc., and your publicity, political or commercial, will receive attention from the public, and especially in Richmond, the center of population of Contra Costa county.

Persons looking for investments in real estate are coming to Richmond in increasing numbers since the recent bond election. This proves that a city overburdened with bonded indebtedness would frighten capital away instead of attracting it. Richmond did the right thing at the right time in defeating the water bonds.

Clyde Stuart of San Francisco, has received a special commission, as water inspector. Dr. Currie secretary of the State Board of Health, will have Stuart tackle Sacramento river water for intestinal bacteria. Dr. Currie says Sacramento river water is dangerous unless boiled, and the Doctor is going to give some publicity to this water that has been suppressed.

Old Abe, in commenting on the water election, said: "The water commission want to hold another election, because they only lost out by 76 votes. But if the people had lost out the other way, could they have called another election? Think it over."

Phil Stanton and "Jack" Eshelman have not come to blows, but are getting the advertising, just the same.

CALIFORNIA'S GOOD YEAR.

For a number of years California has been looking forward to Exposition year which is just beginning. The period of a great growth in population and development should be here, but General Prosperity seems to have been belated. However, it will be here, and nothing except an optimistic view should be taken of the situation. One year hence the bay cities and California will be enjoying the greatest prosperity in the history of the state. A letter to friends and relatives back east who may be hesitating, will start things. California will have a greater increase of population in 1915 than all the other states combined.

The acute "water famine" (?) in Richmond that is keeping factories away seems to have developed rather suddenly. The releasing by the city of the salaried water commission, should relieve the situation, as the scarcity of water may be merely "psychological."

Los Angeles enacts some freaky laws. The city grants licenses to sell liquor, and then passes an ordinance prohibiting the liquor dealers from cashing checks for workingmen. This would seem to be a rather "phony" kind of prohibition.

RICHMOND MEASLES NOTES

(By Measles Critic.)

Wall Street, Richmond, July 31.—The stock market weakened perceptibly this morning on account of measles in the Smith family.

Richmond Real Estate Exchange.—On account of measles in the Brown family, it is rumored that the movies will be closed temporarily. This is tough on the kids who have escaped the measles.

Although the real estate market is normal, the measles scare is having its effect. It is thought that the market will stiffen up as soon as the quarantine is raised from the schools.

Later.—It is now thought that it will not be necessary to quarantining the saloons, as adults are not subject to the measles, especially those who are used to highballs.

The Very Latest.—It is now stated that the measles scare is over, and that the dog muzzling ordinance will be enforced, as things are becoming a little lax in this line.

It is conceded by those who know, that rabies are more dangerous than measles. Several real estate men have signified their intention to try them out on the dog first.

The water commission, it is stated, attribute the present measles epidemic to Sacramento river water, which some families are trying out as an experiment. It is stated there is a measles microbe in this water that can be discovered by a good myopic eye.

It is not thought that the measles will retard the work on the tunnel or harbor.

There are a few candidates who claim that the measles will injure their chances, but the more conservative are not worried. Some say that it will be helpful, as it will keep the women voters at home so they can be found by active candidates who are leaving no "stones unturned."

However, when measles get loose and begin to break out, there is no telling what they will do. A measles when it gets right mad will do almost any one. This is simply a little advice, and may be classed as a health hint.
